Fanfare opening for new John Roan school

by Dick Townsend-Smith

FAMOUS former pupils of John Roan school joined current students and staff for the official opening of the newly-rebuilt school in Greenwich last week.

They included comedian Arthur Smith, and broadcasters Steve Rider and Asad Ahmad -- all 'old boys' at the school -- plus former Education Minister, Baroness Estelle Morris, and local MP Nick Raynsford.

Also present for the ribbon-cutting ceremony last Monday (November 3) was 87-year-old Alan Weir, who joined The John Roan as a boy in 1937, Hilary Haslan, the Chair of The Old Roan Association, and the Mayor of Royal Greenwich, Cllr Mick Hayes.

The school was founded in 1677 and is one of the oldest state schools in the country. The event marked the opening of both the brand new, state-of-the-art building at Westcombe Park and the redeveloped site at Maze Hill.

MAKING TIME: cutting the ribbons for the time capsule are Hilary Haslan, Steve Rider, Alan Weir and Asad Ahmad

The new building includes a purpose-built base for years 9, 10 and 11, with a spacious entrance atrium and stepped seating for performances plus a new sports block and drama studio.

On the redeveloped Maze Hill site the original Grade II-listed 1928 building has been sensitively restored. Both sites are equipped with wireless technology and the school is fully-networked for computer-aided learning on PCs and

Council's McDonalds refusal was overturned

WHEN most councils in England are trying to improve the health of their young people, does it not send the opposite message when the Royal Borough of Greenwich grants planning permission for a new McDonalds within a stone's throw of two schools? The McDonalds being built near Warspite Rd, Charlton is sure to attract pupils, teachers and parents who go to Windrush Primary School and the technology college, thereby increasing the amount of unhealthy food available and contributing to expanding waistlines and local NHS deficits. Was this even considered by the borough and what on earth could have justified its approval? What did McDonalds do to convince planners this was a good idea? Good for the borough is not necessarily good for its residents in this case.

Rob Smithson, Woolwich

● A spokesperson for the council said: "Regrettably the government's planning inspectorate decided to overturn the council's decision to refuse planning permission for this development. Planning permission was sought for a McDonalds restaurant with a drive thru at the junction of Ruston Road and Woolwich Church Street in 2012. The council refused planning permission in 2013 as the development did not comply with the adopted planning policies. Where planning permission is refused national planning legislation allows applicants to lodge an appeal to the Planning Inspectorate and in this instance it decided to overturn the council's decision and to allow the development to proceed."

MY daughter Sofia was inspired by the Halloween celebration in Greenwich Market and wrote this poem about the Green Witch who lived in Greenwich.

We've lived in Greenwich for years and Sofia is in Year 3 at Millennium Primary School.

"Green Witch and the Golden Boot"

There was a Green Witch
Who lived in Greenwich.
She had two cats
Who had two toy rats.
One cat was called Matt
And the other one Satt.
They went to the park
And found a giant mark!
The mark had a map
That they had to unwrap.
They followed the route
And discovered a golden boot!
Green Witch put it on
And everything went wrong:
The cat lost their rats
And they hid under the mats.
The witch's hat was very old
But now it turned gold.
And a bird has appeared
That she really liked to hold.
The witch called her cats

But she saw only two bats.
There was a fly too
That said good-bye to you!

● A spokesperson for Greenwich Market said: "Our Halloween day was a fun filled freaky day - as always the traders excelled themselves in their outfits and everyone had a great time. We are glad to hear that Sofia was inspired to write a poem about her experience."

PAYING TRIBUTE: pupils at Alexander McLeod primary school with their own version of the Tower of London poppy field

Power of the poppy

THESE children at Alexander McLeod Primary School at Abbey Wood have made their own version of the ceramic poppy field at the Tower of London which marks the centenary of the First World War.

Pupils made a total of 620 poppies out of hardened clay, and then painted them red. They were then 'planted' together on the school field. Headteacher Andrew Hook said: "We did this because we are having a Remembrance service in the school this week, with members of Abbey Wood Royal British Legion and older residents taking part. We want the children to realise and understand what Remembrance Day is all about, and the poppies are a way of doing that."

Representatives from the royal borough including the Mayor Cllr Mick Hayes, council leader Denise Hyland, opposition leader Spencer Drury and the Deputy Lieutenant Pieter van der Merwe were due to attend a series of remembrance services across the borough over the weekend.

See picture coverage in next week's GT.

● FOLLOWING our feature 'Remembering our fallen' in last week's edition of Greenwich Time, we would like to point out that the guns of the First World War fell silent 96 years ago, in 1918, and not 100 years ago, as reported. We would like to apologise for our error.

Sixth-former Megan Armson is one of 350 post-16 students at the 1,400-pupil school and said: "The facilities for A-levels are really good. I play the flute, saxophone and piano and I sing, and I can use the recording studio facilities."

Head boy Tobias Warwick-Insoll said: "It's a very good school, with a lot more space and openness." And head girl Bethan Francis said: "The new sports hall is great. It has a new gym and a full-sized basketball court. It means we can have other schools in because we have more facilities now."

Headteacher Des Malone said: "This is a landmark moment for The John Roan which formally opens our outstanding buildings fit for 21st century learning. We are all immensely proud to be part of the continuing history of our very special school." And Patrick Cooper, chair of governors, said: "We're delighted to know that our pupils will be benefitting from the most modern of educational facilities."

Cllr Denise Hyland, leader of the council, said: "These superb new facilities show what can be achieved through a school working in partnership with the local authority and the local community to expand and modernise the facilities on offer to its pupils. The John Roan's strengths include its excellent links with the local community, and the opportunity for the community to use the school's impressive new facilities for sport and performing arts will serve to strengthen these links still further."

● A time capsule was locked into place in the foyer of the school's new Westcombe Park building. It contains a school tie, a copy of John Roan's will, photographs and recordings of school events, pupils and staff, and music and fashion from 2014 chosen by the students. It will be opened on the school's 400th anniversary in 2077.

London Living Wage tops poll of young people

PAYING everyone at least the Living Wage will be discussed in the House of Commons by the UK Youth Parliament on Friday (November 14), having topped national and Greenwich polls of issues which most concern people aged 11 to 18 years old.

The debate comes a week after a rise in the London Living Wage, to which the royal borough is firmly committed. During national Living Wage Week, it was announced that the London Living Wage would go up from £8.80 to £9.15. The borough is an accredited employer with the London Living Wage Foundation and pays its employees and staff employed through employment agencies the London Living Wage. It received this accreditation in October 2013 and part of the commitment involves encouraging the council's contractors to also pay the London Living Wage. Living Wage campaigners say paying the enhanced rate, above minimum wage, is good for businesses, good for staff and their families and good for society.

Accredited employers receive guidance of how to implement the Living Wage among other benefits.

The poll of royal borough youngsters was run by Greenwich Young People's Council, in partnership with the Children's Society, to find the top five issues to be discussed at the UK Youth Parliament.

Just over 3,300 young people cast their votes locally and the topic topped both the local poll and the national one, meaning royal borough teenagers Kim Emenike and Rasheeda Page-Muir will debate the issue in the House of Commons with other Members of the Youth Parliament from across the country.

Other topics include reinstating English and Maths exam resits, everyone having the chance to do work experience, lowering the voting age to 16 and improving mental health services with youngsters' help.

HEALTHY: Plenty of people took advice during the month-long anti-smoking campaign

4,500 sought advice during Stoptober

by Dick Townsend-Smith

ABOUT 4,500 smokers in the royal borough were encouraged by healthy living staff to kick the habit during the 'Stoptober' campaign to help people stop smoking.

Teams from the council, supported by Charlton Athletic Community Trust, staffed roadshows to meet smokers face-to-face and support them in giving up.

More people than ever before joined the national stop smoking event Stoptober this year, with more than 250,000 smokers in England and Wales not smoking during the month.

People taking part who went smoke-free for 28 days are five times more likely not to start again. Over four weeks of the campaign in Greenwich, health staff spoke to 2,400 men and 2,100 women about giving up. The success of the campaign locally will be known in February, when data from family doctors and chemists has been assessed.

Cllr Maureen O'Mara, cabinet member for community wellbeing and public health, said: "Evidence shows the clear health benefits that giving up smoking provides, and that by quitting smoking, people can make a huge difference to their long-term wellbeing."

"The success of mass-quit attempts, such as Stoptober, shows that a tobacco-free generation is now within sight as more smokers stub out their cigarettes as part of a conscious decision to improve their health."

● It's not too late to sign up for support in quitting: visit www.greenwichstopsmoking.org. uk, call 0800 587 5833, or text 'QUIT' to 60060.

Keeping dogs controlled

DOG owners are reminded to keep their dogs on leads in parks and open spaces controlled by the royal borough.

To remind people, signs are in place to explain where Dog Control Orders are in operation. These include council -run parks, children's playgrounds, roads, paths and housing estates. The council also paints pavement stencils to warn dog owners - particularly where it receives complaints about dog fouling. Residents who witness a breach of Dog Control Orders or encounter a dog behaving aggressively, can report it to the Greenwich dog control team at 020 8921 4661 or email contactcentre@royalgreenwich.gov.uk

The council regularly hosts advice sessions for dog owners to remind them about their responsibilities as dog owners and to explain how dog control orders work. The orders say owners should clean up after their dogs, not have more than four dogs under their control and keep them on a lead unless in one of the borough's dog friendly parks and opens spaces - a full list of areas where dogs are allowed off lead is available at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/dogcontrol

Cllr Jackie Smith, cabinet member for community safety and environment, said: "The majority of dog owners are responsible but the royal borough introduced Dog Control Orders in an effort to tackle anti-social behaviour caused by irresponsible dog owners and reduce incidents and accidents involving dogs."

'Keep A&E for emergencies'

'Yellow men' steer residents away from A&E

by Dan Stephens

WOOLWICH'S General Gordon Square had some unusual visitors last Tuesday (November 4).

A family of seven-foot tall 'Yellow Men' were on show as part of 'A&E won't kiss it better', a campaign by the NHS to inform people about the alternatives to visiting a hospital's accident and emergency department this winter.

Cllr Denise Hyland, leader of the royal borough, and Cllr David Gardner, cabinet member for health and social care, were in attendance to back the campaign, which is run by the NHS Greenwich Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG).

There are a range of NHS services available in the royal borough in place to help residents with medical illness and injuries that are not an emergency – including pharmacies, GPs surgeries, walk-in centres and urgent care centres.

The campaign brings local people a wealth of useful information about the kind of treatment options at these NHS services and aims to take pressure off the borough's A&E services by encouraging them to look for alternatives in non-emergency situations.

There is also plenty of advice about self-care and the steps you can take this winter to stay warm and safe.

The campaign also stresses the importance of people looking after themselves during the colder winter months, by staying warm and comfortable and ensuring general health is maintained.

Suggestions include stocking up a medicine cabinet at home with items such as Paracetamol, Aspirin (not for under 16 years), anti-diarrhoea medicine, rehydration mixture, indigestion mixture, plasters and a thermometer.

In an emergency you should always call 999 but in a non-emergency out of hours, when your GP is closed and you require medical advice, you can call the NHS on 111 for assistance.

Cllr Gardner told GT: "The royal borough of Greenwich has an excellent network of GPs and pharmacists and out-of-hours care. There is no need to go to A&E with a cold or cough – always visit your GP for minor illness and injury.

"This means our Queen Elizabeth Hospital can continue to provide excellent service to those in need of emergency care."

Dr Ellen Wright, GP at Vanbrugh Hill Health Centre and Chair of the Greenwich CCG, told GT: "This project is about getting the right care for residents, in the right place, first time. The information from the 'A&E won't kiss it better' campaign is a great guide to local health provision."

Temporary station opens

by Dick Townsend-Smith

A TEMPORARY Crossrail station has opened at Abbey Wood. The move is designed to allow work on a permanent new Crossrail station to get underway.

It will stay in daily use until 2017, when the new station is due to open.

The temporary station includes a staffed gate, ticket machines and windows, a cash point and - for the first time - lifts to all platforms. Work will start shortly to remove the existing station building.

The new, two-level station will be built above two new dedicated Crossrail tracks and those used by North Kent services. The design includes:

- A bright, spacious concourse that leads directly onto a wide forecourt connecting the station to the Harrow Manorway dual carriageway which runs above the current station

- Two new 'island' platforms for Crossrail and North Kent services

- Six lifts to help passengers get around the station and to provide step-free access to every platform.

Matthew White, Crossrail surface director, said: "This is another milestone in the delivery of the new, landmark station at Abbey Wood. Crossrail will help to transform the local area, providing a step change in public transport and supporting wider regeneration in south-east London."

The work is being done by Network Rail, which is responsible for the design, development and delivery of the parts of Crossrail that are on the existing network.

From 2018, a train every five minutes during peak time will allow Abbey Wood residents to travel right through the capital without having to change trains.

Trips from Abbey Wood to Canary Wharf and Bond Street will be cut by about 20 minutes and by 40 to Heathrow.

NEW LOOK: The station at Abbey Wood

Train services to alter in December

RAIL users are being urged to check before they travel at the turn of the year and beyond, as timetable alternations take place to accommodate rebuilding London Bridge as part of the £6.5billion Thameslink Programme.

There are some alterations to Southeastern services, on lines through the royal borough. From December 22-24, morning peak trains to Charing Cross will not stop at London Bridge between 07.54 and 09.01.

From January 12, 2015 some Southeastern trains to Charing Cross will not stop at London Bridge for 20 months. Southeastern services from New Cross, St Johns, Deptford, Greenwich, Maze Hill and Westcombe Park will no longer have train services to Charing Cross or Waterloo East, and will instead operate to and from Cannon Street.

Trains to Plumstead, Woolwich Dockyard, Belvedere and Erith will be diverted to and from Cannon Street until August 2016.

We'd like your opinion on a new tunnel at Silvertown, which is part of a package of proposed river crossings. The new tunnel will:

- Provide a new road crossing across the Thames
- Reduce queuing at the Blackwall Tunnel
- Support the creation of new jobs and homes
- Create the opportunity for new public transport connections

We'd also like your views on a range of charging options that are being proposed for the Blackwall and Silvertown Tunnels, once the Silvertown Tunnel opens in the early 2020s. This would help manage demand and fund the new tunnel.

New chief executive for royal borough

THE royal borough has a new chief executive.

The appointment of John Comber was confirmed at a meeting of full council last week.

Mr Comber takes on the new role after being appointed through a member-led panel and takes up the post having previously been director of regeneration, enterprise and skills at the royal borough, where he oversaw some of the council's biggest regeneration projects and drove forward its economic growth strategy.

He's worked in the royal borough for nearly 20 years and takes over from Mary Ney, who retired at the end of last month.

Council leader Denise Hyland said: "We're delighted to have John at the helm - he is a man dedicated to the borough who knows Greenwich inside out and is extremely experienced."

"I also want to pay tribute to our outgoing chief executive Mary Ney. "Over the past 14 years

she's shepherded the borough through some incredible highlights, securing a solid platform for growth, hosting major events like the London 2012 Olympic events and the Royal Greenwich Tall Ships Regatta and has worked tirelessly to secure the best possible outcomes for the people of this borough. We wish her all the best and I look forward very much to working with John who I have no doubt will put his own stamp on the role"

● The chief executive is the most senior officer post in the council, providing strategic leadership to deliver the council's agenda, managing the council's staff and resources, supporting and guiding elected members and representing the council to achieve the best possible value for residents by keeping services under constant review.

As chief executive, John Comber also assumes the roles of the borough's returning officer during elections, takes the lead role as 'Gold' officer in the borough's emergency planning arrangements, also becomes clerk to the Eltham Crematorium Joint Committee.

Black history no mystery

by Dan Stephens

All ages celebrate culture and traditions of all nations

YOUNG people helped to showcase the rich cultures and traditions of the Black community in Britain at events and projects staged across the borough for Black History Month.

Events took place throughout October at schools, community organisations, public buildings with junior citizens featuring in most of them.

Woolwich Town Hall hosted an International Day where residents shared their stories about where they grew up and learned more about the different cultures and nationalities in the royal borough. There was an array of dance, drama and musical attractions including performances from Flame Lily Arts, Cardwell Primary School and St Mary Magdalene C of E Primary School, and guest speakers from countries such as Nepal and Africa.

Key Stage 3 students at Eltham Hill School in Eltham celebrated by taking part in fun and educational activities in and out of the classroom. Students delivered a Hall of Fame assembly, with others involved in literacy projects contribute to local history research projects to an exhibition at Goldsmiths University early in the month. The students conducted oral history interviews and their work included several short as part of the Making Histories project.

Students also heard from local historians, who taught them a range of skills, from researching and archiving to making historical films.

Last week (Nov 5) students attended an event at the Houses of Parliament as part of their 'Making Histories' projects. They presented their work and research directly to policy makers and MPs and took part in a formal debate.

Charlton Triangle Homes also worked with young members of local community to celebrate Black History Month, hosting an exciting African-themed storytelling, music, and dance event with arts group Global Fusion Musica dn Arts. Held at Springfield crèche in Springfield Grove within the Charlton Triangle estate, the event saw over 70 local children and adults attending.

Visitors were treated to a series of African stories set to music told by local musician and entertainer Claude Depper. Claude also ran an African drumming workshop and children dressed up in traditional wear.

DOWN TO EARTH: Council leader Denise Hyland with apprentice Perry Farugia and Gary Chin, principal of Greenwich Community College at the construction skills centre in Kidbrooke

A chance to train and qualify as classroom support

NEW apprenticeship opportunities are being organised for people to train as classroom assistants. They start with a work experience programme that allows applicants and employers to "try before they buy". The council is inviting schools in the borough to provide a life-changing opportunity to a local young person who wants a career in education. This apprenticeship scheme helps train people to gain the practical skills and qualifications that schools need now and in the future. The apprentices will be recruited through an open day at GLLaB's offices in Calderwood Street, Woolwich. They will be given a week's induction training and an interview by the school. Roles available include teaching assistants, and learning support, bilingual and foundation stage assistants. Apprentices will have the opportunity to work in the school for six weeks before beginning the apprenticeship, and will gain an NVQ in Supporting Teaching and Learning in Schools through the council. Schools will pay a training allowance to the apprentices. The apprenticeship will last for about 18 months.

Andrew Hook, headteacher at Alexander McLeod Primary School in Abbey Wood (pictured) has two TA apprentices starting a taster session this week. He said: "I want to see this idea replicated across the borough. "It will be the first step to a career in teaching for them, and provide a clear pathway. "It's also the first step towards a teaching degree for local young adults, and I want to be positive in making it happen." ● The open day for apprentices is now being planned. Anyone wanting to apply should contact Simone.Crossley@royalgreenwich.gov.uk or call 020 8921 2462 to register with GLLaB. Council apprenticeships are open to borough residents, with priority given to 16-24 year olds.

Joint recruitment day for trainee staff

A recruitment open day for new apprentices was due to take place in Woolwich yesterday (Monday, November 10). Organised by Greenwich Local Labour and Business (GLLaB), the council's local employment initiative, and GS Plus, the company that delivers services such as education and hospitality catering and vehicle maintenance to the council. The event, at the Old Library in Calderwood Street, aimed to promote the expansion of GS Plus's apprenticeship scheme. Current apprentices were on hand to share their experiences and answer questions.

DEVELOPERS Berkeley Homes are launching a new apprenticeship scheme in Greenwich to help more local young people into employment. The scheme, being run in partnership with the council and Greenwich Community College, is being officially launched on Thursday (November 13) at Devonport House, Greenwich, between 1pm and 4pm. The group's charitable arm, called the Berkeley Foundation, wants to take on another 250 young people between now and June next year. The group already provides structured

THE council has been offering apprenticeships to people in the borough for more than 50 years – and the numbers are growing.

Since 2012, a total of 242 apprentices have been recruited, and there are plans to take on another 15 apprentices by the end of the year.

Apprentices can 'earn while they learn' in a range of jobs, in areas such as business administration, cleaning and environment support, housing, health and social care, horticulture and facilities management.

The council has also run recruitment campaigns for specific groups, including people leaving care and people affected by welfare reforms, with its Greenwich Local Labour Project (GLLP). More than 60 per cent of apprentices who successfully complete their placements have gone on to other opportunities with the council.

Two of the apprentices taken on by Cleansweep, Tyrell Beckford and Sam Cowcher, are among those who have been highly praised by residents and former Mayor, Cllr Barbara Barwick, during an estate inspection on Morris Walk Estate in Woolwich.

Nassir Ali, a former finance apprentice and now a senior apprentice payments officer for the royal borough told GT: "I was 23 at the time and I wasn't completely sure the scheme was for me – however as soon as I began at the royal borough I knew it was an excellent opportunity. I got a massive amount of support from all the staff there which was very welcome and it gave me lots of confidence in the role.

"It turned out to be a great opportunity to work hard training to more than 700 young adults, through construction apprenticeships, its graduate scheme, or for those working on GNVQ or equivalent qualifications.

Working with the community college and GLLaB, the council's employment initiative, the group has developed the Berkeley Apprenticeship Scheme. This offers career opportunities to local young people, helping to increase the level of skilled workers within the borough.

Traditionally construction apprenticeships have helped to recruit, retain and develop talented people into a range of craft occupations. These include painting and decorating, bricklaying, plastering, site carpentry, electrical engineering and plumbing – all skills which GLLaB has identified as being in demand.

The scheme is designed to offer progression to supervisor and management roles, helping to provide the industry with a well-trained and productive people.

Cllr Sizwe James, the council's cabinet member for business, employment and skills, said: "I am delighted that the council is supporting Berkeley with the creation of new apprenticeship opportunities in construction."

"Berkeley is showing real leadership in this area and strong commitment to addressing the growing training and apprenticeship deficit that exists across the sector.

"This work will, I hope, go some way towards building the capacity of the local construction workforce, feeding through to greater numbers of local people benefiting from regeneration and growth."

Greenwich Community College has now expanded its apprenticeship training. The Intermediate (Level 2) Apprenticeship takes 18 months to complete; the Advanced (Level 3) Apprenticeship is structured as a three year programme. Apprentices will be based at Kidbrooke Village's specialist Construction Skills Centre, where they will receive both practical and theoretical training as part of the scheme.

The centre, which opened in July this year, is the fourth in the borough, and is housed in a mobile building which can be transferred from site to site.

● Anyone interested in applying for the scheme should contact business@gcc.ac.uk or call 020 8853 7025. To find out more about Thursday's launch event, or book a space, email Simone Crossley at GLLaB at simone.crossley@royalgreenwich.gov.uk or call 020 8921 2462.

and achieve a lot. It was an excellent platform to successfully apply for jobs further down the line when I had gained that experience."

Last month saw the latest in a series of graduation events held by the council to celebrate the apprentices' achievements. It was hosted by the Mayor who presented certificates of achievement at the Woolwich Centre event.

Cllr Sizwe James, the council's cabinet member for business, employment and skills, said: "One of our aims is to address the high rates of unemployment amongst young people locally. An apprenticeship is an increasingly popular option into the world of work and the council works in partnership with a range of training providers such as GLLaB to develop opportunities for apprenticeships within the council and with other employers in the royal borough.

"The council has also set up four specialist skills centres to help people get the training in the sectors where jobs are available."

● The council's apprenticeship scheme is open to borough residents, with priority given to 16-24 year olds. To apply register with GLLaB call Simone Crossley on 020 8921 2440.

Honk if you love a good fairytale

PRESENTED by the Hulviz Amateur Musical Society, this utterly delicious new musical pulls off the considerable trick of delighting children and winking wickedly at the adults simultaneously.

Honk! Is based on one of the world's favourite fairytales, Hans Christian Andersen's The Ugly Duckling. It tells the story of duckling Ugly, but it soon becomes clear he is no ordinary duck!

Mocked on the farmyard and pursued by the ever hungry Cat, Ugly finds himself in all manner of predicaments with a battery of colourful characters.

With a tuneful score and witty lyrics, by George Stiles and Anthony Drewe, it confirms the pair as "the biggest hopes for the future of the British Musical". Your feathers will stand on end with sheer joy.

Honk! is on at the Bob Hope Theatre, Wythfield Road, Eltham, from Nov 20-22.

The free exhibition which explores the theme of remembrance at the Queen's House closes on November 16. For the last two days, students from the drama programme at the University of Greenwich perform a piece in response to the display which has been running since May. Children from the Royal Hospital School will be taking part in the parade starting from the Thames to the Queen's House. Rozanne herself will be leading a group of 12 Year 8 students, who will carry the original 1919 war memorial for pupils and teachers of the school. She will be doing the last curators tour of her own show, tomorrow November 12. Further details on 020 8312 6565.

NEW For December 2014: Crafty Wizards World

With the success of Crafty Wizards Pre-School we are opening a new spellbinding location for 0 - 8 year olds to play and party indoors. We are very excited to offer a unique place for parents and carers to enjoy time along side their child/ children with support from experienced staff. There will be a soft play area for children under two, a soft play climbing area for children over two, an interactive table, messy play, an arts and crafts room, a range of professionally led morning classes and personalised party packages. We are looking for enthusiastic, energetic, articulate and dedicated staff who share our passion for creativity and excellence. Ideally, all candidates will have experience working with children; have taken an active part in supporting children with a range of needs and have a desire for working actively alongside children and their parents/carers. All candidates will be subject to a full DBS check and be expected to attend training courses.

We have a number of positions available:

- Full-time Assistant Manager. Monday - Friday 8am - 5pm
- Weekend Manager and party liaison. Saturday 8am - 5pm
- Full-time/Part-time Part and Play Assistants. Monday - Friday (flexible hours)
- Part-time Party and Play Assistants. Saturdays 8am - 5pm
- Music, Dance and child workshop leaders (energy, confidence and enthusiasm a must). Monday - Fridays, session blocks between 9-10am.

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the Royal Borough of Greenwich with the consent of the Secretary of State for Transport has made an Order to facilitate the staging of the annual "Eltham Lights Up" event on Eltham High Street on Thursday 20th November 2014. The effect of the Order will be to temporarily close certain roads and impose various traffic restrictions, as follows:
 - (a) on Thursday 20th November 2014, between 4:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. only, to:
 - (i) prohibit vehicles from entering or proceeding to:
 - (A) Elm Terrace;
 - (B) Eltham High Street, between Well Hall Road and Footscray Road; and
 - (C) Pound Place;
 - (ii) impose a one-way working in an eastbound direction in Dobell Road between Well Hall Road and Footscray Road;
 - (iii) prohibit all vehicles, except buses, from entering that part of Footscray Road situated to the north of its junction with Southend Crescent, at that junction and
 - (iv) prohibit vehicles from waiting or loading in Eltham High Street, both sides between Well Hall Road and Footscray Road;
 - (b) on Thursday 20th November 2014, throughout the whole day, to:
 - (i) prohibit vehicles from waiting or loading in:
 - (A) Archery Road, both sides between Dobell Road and Gourock Road;
 - (B) Footscray Road, the south-west side, from Newlands Court north-westward for 40 metres;
 - (C) Gourock Road, the north-west side only; and
 - (D) North Park, both sides; and
 - (ii) suspend the northbound one-way working in Elm Terrace and Pound Place.
2. The above restrictions will only apply at such times and to such extent as shall be indicated by the placing of the appropriate traffic signs.
3. Whilst the prohibitions remain in operation, vehicular traffic normally using the temporarily closed section of Eltham High Street will be directed via Court Yard, Court Road, North Park, northbound on Footscray Road towards Eltham High Street (then using Southend Crescent to travel south if necessary), and vice versa, following local discretionary signing.
4. The above restrictions will not prevent essential vehicular access to premises only accessible via Elm Terrace and Pound Place.

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band B both in priority date order.
Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

There is also a development on the Royal Arsenal site which is a mixture of properties for rent, shared ownership and discounted sale with Viridian Housing Association. This is part of the on-going work between Royal

SENIOR LIVING IN ROYAL GREENWICH

Greenwich and its housing partners to develop a wide range of housing options for people living in Royal Greenwich and who are aged 55 and over. Priority for the rented homes will be given to Royal Borough tenants who are living in family sized housing and want to downsize into smaller homes, or tenants who are being rehoused as part of the regeneration proposals for the Woolwich area. The first of these will be available from March 2015.

The shared ownership homes being developed in Woolwich will include a range of 1 and 2 bedroom apartments for shared ownership, for which Royal Borough tenants and residents will be given priority.

If you are interested in finding out more about these opportunities please come along to our drop in session on Thursday November 27 between 10.00am and 2.00 pm at: The Public Hall, Town Hall, Wellington Street, Woolwich SE18 6PW.

Let's get competitive!

TENNIS players with disabilities enjoyed the first of many tournament days, at Hornfair Park, thanks to the latest South London Special League (SLSL) project.

The designed charity of the Mayor of the royal borough Cllr Mick Hayes who attended the event, it is part of the league's One Game One Love series.

Coaches on the day Paul James and John Hoskins already run sessions for players with disabilities through SLSL at Hornfair Park and Shooters Hill.

Sharon Brokenshire, who runs SLSL, said: "Tennis is a very social game, but with this project we want to concentrate on getting players to a level where they can compete - we want to make it both fun and competitive.

"This was the first day of competition we have had," said Sharon, who added that the event combined with a celebration of Halloween.

"We will do competitions on a regular basis - it will be the ethos of our tennis that we want people to compete," added Sharon.

The tournament featured people aged 16 and over and the project has been funded by the royal borough as well as Sportivate, a Lottery-funded project which aims to get more people into activity.

The aim, said Sharon, is to form a club atmosphere among the tennis players, where they can spend some time practising but much of the time competing.

SLSL also runs wheelchair tennis sessions at Crown Woods as well as sessions for juniors and adults with disabilities at the Waterfront and Hornfair Park, Charlton, at different times.

Meanwhile, the charity is to expand the range of its sports by using its Shooters Hill tennis sessions for cricket in the run up to Christmas.

This is to prepare players for events next summer.

PHOEBE FRANKLIN collected her latest accolade this year from the Duke of Edinburgh, Prince Philip.

The talented cricketer, 16, from Eltham, has enjoyed a very successful year, including being called into the England national training camp.

She also won the women's county championship in her age-group playing for Kent.

The girls were invited to Buckingham Palace where they were presented with the cup, as well as the Lords Taverner's Trophy from the Duke of Edinburgh, Prince Philip, personally.

Phoebe is supported by the Greenwich Starting Blocks Trust, which helps local talented athletes.

She said: "The money I have received has helped me to buy equipment, because it can be quite expensive.

"It helps me to train and play and just make sure I have the right things."

Athletes tell fundraising dinner how Starting Blocks helps them

by Ian Lamont

THE dedication of young sports people was summed up this week by one Greenwich Starting Blocks athlete squeezing in training before attending the charity's annual fundraising dinner.

That was after dashing back from Northampton, where she had competed in a swimming gala for her school.

And Sabrina Sinha's all-conquering year - in cross-country and on the athletics track so far - has not finished yet.

She will compete in the British Biathlon Championships in the next few days, so needed to fit in a running session with Cambridge Harriers last Thursday, having already competed for Greenwich Royals Swimming Club earlier in the week.

The 15-year-old nipped from training at Sutcliffe Park back to Blackheath to get ready for the Starting Blocks dinner at the O2's super club, where she was able to tell 250 diners how the support of the charity had helped her.

Sabrina, who receives a grant and free membership to sports centres run by Greenwich Leisure Limited, said: "The support of Starting Blocks has helped me immensely as I have to do so much training."

"The highlight of my year so far was probably winning the English Schools 1,500m. I worked so hard for that and it was one of the hardest races I've ever done and winning was an amazing feeling."

The dinner was attended by more than 250 people and raised thousands of pounds for the charity which has helped the likes of Zoe Smith, who became Commonwealth Games weightlifting gold medallist this summer, and judo Olympic silver medallist Gemma Gibbons.

The dinner was attended by Zoe's sister Yana, who won London Youth Games gold this year, and New Eltham's Jonathan 'JJ' Webb, who has become a full-time fencer in his gap year as he focuses on the under-20s Commonwealth Games next year.

During the evening, athletes were interviewed by Jacquie Beltrao, the Olympian and Sky Sports presenter, before Barry Hearn shared his vast experience in promoting sport.

Peter Bunday, chair of Greenwich Starting Blocks, said: "Our organisation helps young aspiring athletes achieve their dreams, providing essential funding and training throughout their sporting journey."

"The huge success of our GSB supported athletes at the Commonwealth Games demonstrates the considerable return on investment we achieve."

"Our aim is to increase this good work and support more future medal winners."
